Special to the Cincinnati Commercial of to-day. FRAUDULENT OPERATIONS IN KANSAS BONDS. Capitalists should be careful how they invest in the county bonds from Kansas. It is charged that through the fraudulent opera-tions of a bond ring there from five to six hundred thousand dollars of illegal bonds issued for various counties in that State which have no population, and that Governor Osborn, one of the ring, is now in the East endeavoring to dispose of them. The counties alluded to are Comanche, Harper, Kingman, Pratt and Clark. The bonds are ostensibly to tund in-debtedness incurred in the construction of bridges, school houses and court houses. It appears that in these counties, which lie in the extreme southern part of the State, there are not all told fifty white inhabitants, and the country is use by the Indians as hunting grounds, and yet this bond ring have gotten up false census returns, showing that each one of the counties named has a populat on of at least six hundred souls. Upon these false returns they have proceeded to organize the counties, and the results of pretended elections are given, whereat County Commissioners, Prosecuting Attorneys, etc., have been chosen to office. The persons named as Commissioners have then proceeded to issue bonds, varying in amount from $80,000 to $150,000, for each county. These bonds are registered in the office of the State Auditor, and have been put on the market. In some cases they have These bonds are registered in the met with purchasers. In the counties named all the improvements of the kind in-dicated have not cost to exceed fifty thousand dollars. It is charged that Messrs, Bemus, Kirkpatrick and Ulmer, all residents of the town of Hutchinson, Kansas, together with the Governor of the State, Osborn, and State officials generally, comprise the ring and that in at least two, perhaps three, o the counties Benus, Kirkpatrick and Ulmer are returned as elected County Commission-

In the other counties they have procured other parties to carry out the fraud.

As there is no taxable property in any of these counties, the interest on the bonds can not be raised, and, of course, as the payment of the principal will be resisted whenever in uture it is demanded, and, as when such re sistance is made in a court of law, the fraudulent nature of these so-called securities must become known, they will prove utterly here will take measures at once to secure the co-operation of the Attorney General, if he finds the matter to come within his provnce, to aid in bringing the guilty parties to ers, and have issued the bonds in question.

The effect of the surreptitious increase of the postage on third-class matter, known as the expressmen's jobs, will be evidently more far reaching than its authors had anticipated. The estimates for this appro-priation for the official postage stamps for all the Government Departments were based upon the old law of one cent for every two ounces of third-class matter. A great proportion of the Department mail matter consists of third class matter. The effect of the change of the law in favor of the express companies will consequently be to reduce the stamp appropriations for all of the departments by one half. The appropriation for this purpose will be exhausted in six months instead of one year. The post office department can not give any department a credit fer an additional amount of stamps, as there is a penal statute which prohibits any department from expending, in any fiscal year, any sum in excess of the appropriation made by Congress for the fiscal year, or from involving the Government in any contract for the future payment of money in excess of such appropriations. In some departments where there are large appropriations for expressage, the mail matter will be sent by express instead of by mail, when the stamp appropriations are exhausted.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Preparations for the grand demonstration in honor of John Mitchel have been almost completed, and most of the Irish societies had determined on turning out, but the idea had to be aban doned in consequence of the law being in the way. A committee waited on the police authorities yesterday to obtain permission to parade next Saturday, but they were informed of the law on the subject. The idea of a procession was then abandoned, and instead a funeral oration will be delivered at the Hippodrome by Charles O'Conor, the eminent lawyer.
To-day being Good Friday, it will be appropriately observed by imposing ceremonies in all the Catholic and Episcopal churches.

GOVERNOR HENDRICKS has always manifested great hostility to the Baxter bill, and now that it is dead he takes occasion to pronounce it a failure. It never had a fair trial to begin with, but it was anything but a failure. Even here in this city where the authorities only made two or three feeble attempts to enforce it, it reduced the number of saloons and cleared many neighborhoods of demoralization breeders. It was not a perfect law. there were several features in it that might have been improved, but the general and bitter opposition to it of all concerned in and interested in the liquor traffic, showed that it was no failure. Had it been a failure, as the Governor sneeringly says it "is now quite generally conceded to be," the howl of rage and opposition from that class would not have been so loud and so general. People who are not hurt do not cry commonly. If the law had been of no effect the liquor interest would have been perfectly well satisfied; it would have been just what they wanted. Governor Hendricks may try to gloss over or palliate the action of his party in repudiating true Democratic doctrine and pandering to the wishes of free whiskyites to secure votes, but he will not progress effectively by sneering at the Baxter law as a failure.

THE Sentinel thinks we made a blunder in saying the Legislatue of 1872-'73 was not the best one ever seen and then crediting the half of the Senate that held over, with improving the tone and brain of the recently adjourned body. A little analysis may show the Sentinel that we made no blunder. The Senate was the balance wheel that held the House back and gave it an impetus to work at the same time. Had the House followed the example of the Senate no extra session would have ben necessary, and there would have been time for a great deal of necessary legislation. This House was elected under peculiar circumstances, at a time when party politics were in a chaotic state and the chains of party were relaxed. It was a conglomerate body representing all shades of opinion and nearly all classes, a most unsafe body to trust general legislation to. The Senate was constructed to some extent on the same plan. That is, the same conditions entered into its constitution, but it was less noticeable because members of that body are on the average superior to members of the House in attainments, experience and standing, though they may not surpass them in natural ability. The fact that half of them held over and were not elected under circumstances tending to unsettle political matters and bring strange elements and ideas to the top, tended still more to make the Senate conservative, while half the members having had a session's experience

INTO THE CRAIBR.

Two Americans Nearly a Mile into Po pocatapetl.

Last November, a party of three adven-turous Americans made the perilous ascent of Popocatapetl, the loftiest volcano in the world, with the purpose of spending a night at the bottom of the crater, which is 4.500 feet below the summit of the mountain. Two of the party succeeded, but the third, who tells the somewhat apochryphal story in the Cleveland Leader, was compelled to give up before the ascent of the 19.623 feet of mountain was accomplished. From his feter, which is dated December 14, we quote as follows: succeeded in reaching an altitude of nearly 18,000 feet and then gave out on account of a previous illness, from which I had not fully recovered, and was compelled to return to a ranch down on the "timber line. Here I awaited the return of the party which was composed of Col. Grasty, of Vir ginia, and Mr. Harry Stevens, of Cleveland. who had accompanied me from home. This accounts for the commencement of this letter after their having reached the summit of Popocatapetl.

THE GIGANTIC CRATER

Is about on mile in diameter, and 4,500 feet deep, and, almost incredible to believe, but nevertheless true, there is a settlement can sisting of forty sulphur miners, in the bot tom of this awful cavity, their only mode o ingress and egress from this infernal region being by the means of a windless and 1,000 feet of rope, by which they are lowered down to a shelf in the side of the abyss, the rest of the journey downward being per-formed on foot, over a long and steep descent. The thoughts of Grasty and Stevens were now turned to the horrible gulf that vawned before them, for in it they must pass the night, which would fall in the course of two or three hours, for it was alike impossible to spend it on the mountain top or to return down to the "timber line." An Indian ememploye of the sulphur mine had preceded them up the volcano bearing their letter of introduction to Senor Corchado, the super intendent of the mine, who immediately repaired to the summit where he met them half or three-quarters of an hour after their

CORCHADO, "THE OLD MAN OF THE MOUNTAIN, Is a singular character, one well worthy of the pen of a romancer. He is a Creole man well advanced in the evening of life. He has been intimately connected with Popocatapeti and everything associated with the great volcano for over half century. He now lives at the bottom of the crater, 4,500 feet below its rocky rim. To this strange abode he welcomed Grasty and Stevens with heartiness and real hosp tality.

DESCENT INTO THE BOWELS OF THE VOLCANO They zigzagged down the bleared and blackened rock about 230 feet, and came to windlass, called "El Malacate." From this was suspended a cable about an inch and a half in diameter and a thousand feet long From this point they obtained a magnifice. view of the crater, whose walls rose in all directions in frightful wildness and sublimi-ty. They at once appreciated its enormous dimensions. Nearly a mile below them was the bottom, almost lost in the darkness and are deep. From these fissures issued dense distance. To illustrate the great depth, it would be no exaggeration to say that if you were to take Mount Vesuvius, which is 4,500 feet high, and turn it upside down and stick air above, and then falls in a fine sprinkle on it into the crater, it would about fill it. This gulf presents one of the grandest sights on earth, and has a terrible fascination for rior of this great orifice is thickly coated with the beholder. The most stolid are greatly a remarkably fine quality of the flour of the beholder. The most stolid are greatly impressed, while the susceptible are completely overwhelmed by its awful sublimity, Grasty and Stevens peered over the ledge where stood the windlass, and far, far below them a level rock that formed the top of a long steep declivity at the foot of which was black spot which they were told was the party visited the largest and gazed down inminer's house. They were to descend to the declivity by the rope, having accepted Corchado's invitation to spend the night below Corchado and Stevens went first. They were tied to the cable in such a manner that they satside by side. Evirything being ready Stevens cried out to Grasty, "Goodbye, Col onel!" and they were swung far out

OVER THE ABYSS. For about the distance of 150 feet the ledge from which they made their wild leap pro-jected out over the precipice, and consequently they hung free and dangling in midir. It was but a minute or two, however, before they came to a place where the cliff bellied out further than the windlass rock. and they were compelled to kick against its strong front to keep clear of it. Immense clouds of sulphurous steam and of sulphurous steam and gases rolled skyward from beneath this projection. These nauseated Stevens, and set him to comiting badly. They were now out of sight of the people above them. Stevens afterwards said he felt as if he was going straight into the jaws of hell. On every side of them was a gezantic and hideous rim of cracked cliffs and blistered crags. Beneath them were pools of liquid and burning sul-phur, that trickled in fittle rivulets from the ed and fire-marked walls of the crater. Noxious vapors floated through the air-all seemed a horrible nightmare of destruction and chaos. They reached the declivity in safety, after a fearful journey of ten minutes, ntied themselves. The rope was then and

GRASTY SWOOMS WHILE DANGLING IN THE HOB-

Through some mistake, the rope that went around his back slipped down too low. He dropped from the crag still weak from the suffering he had experienced in the ascent. Everything went well until he got to the place where the precipice bulges out. Here disaster overtook him. A cloud of gas laden vapor enveloped him, and he fainted away with yet 700 feet to descend. Corchado and Stevens saw him let go of the rope, throw his arms out grasping at the air, and fall back until his head was lower than his heels; then spin round and round, striking the sharp rocks in a fearful manner. Stevens said it fairly made his blood run cold, and he turned his head from the awful sight. Mean-while Corchado had given the man at the windlass a sign to lower faster, and Grasty's apparently lifeless and mutilated body soon reached the spot where they stood. His face was severely bruised, and his clothing badly torn, waile the blood was trickling from his nose and ears, but he still breathed. After an houre subting and the still breathed. an hour's rubbing and throwing of snow in his face, he came to, and the whole party, now augmented by the arrival of a number of peon miners from below, descended the

SLOPING SIDE OF THE CRATER. Chorchado and his Indians led the way, alowly followed by Grasty, who was suppor-ed by Stevens and a peon. After they had got about half-way down the steep, they experienced from the ice and stones great difficulty in traveling. The most annoying thing, however, was the constant danger they were in of being crushed by the huge hunks of ice and rock that were continually rolling down the assent. This debris is the matter that is lossened daily by the sun, whose warmth strikes off its icy fetters and suffers gravity to have its way. This being the case; our adventurers had to keep one eye cocked up the hill and the other down-the one to dodge the boulders and the other to prevent themselves from slipping and tumbling along with the stones. After two hours slippery descending they reached

THE BOTTOM OF THE PIT

About half-after four in the afternoon of Thanksgiving day. It was now more than fourteen hours since they had left the ranch on the timber line. During this time they had ascended over 6,000 feet to the summit, and then descended over 4.500 feet into

THE BOWELS OF THE VOLCANO. That is, they were about eleven hours going up 6,000 feet, and three hours going down, including stonpages at the edge of the crater. Here they found a hut made of stones, inhabited by the sulphur miners. On arriving at the hut they immediately threw selves upon a pile of mats and sought slum-ber, but found it not. Stevens had a severe attack of rheumatism in his left arm, and Grasty was in a sturor like that of a drunk en man, more dead than alive; both were sore and bruised by their many falls during the day, and sick at the stomach from the noxious vapors that surrounded them. The ground beneath them was warm, while the ir around them was intensely cold. Grasty afterwards said that it was the most

> TERRIBLE NIGHT OF HIS LIFE. was impossible to sleep on account of

cold and the horrible hisses and groans that resounded throughout the crater. lay all the long night wearied and worn, rolling and tossing in ineffectual attempts to gain a little sleep. About 12 o'clock Stevens felt Grasty crawling over him for the door. He asked him where he was going, and Grasty replied in rather a queer manner that he he was going out to get some fresh air. Stevens thereupon followed him, shook him by the shoulder and said "Hallo, Colone! what is the matter?" Grasty turned around in a confused manner and wanted to know how how he got out there. It was plain that his ong fast and great fatigue has brought on a light hallucination. He aroused himself and they remained where they were and observ-ed the ghastly effect of the moonlight on the gigantic and firesplit walls of the crater. moon was nearly overhead, and poured her effulgent beams directly into the crater, the rim of which, so far overhead that it made their necks ache to looks so high, was silvered with everlasting snow and looked like a great ring or halo against the black sky. The southern sides ose precipitously for thousands upon thousands of teet, while those of the north were loping to within a thousand or fifteen hunet of the summit. The he surface of a mighty cauldron of lava that had gradually cooled until it now presented the appearance of a small, plain circular in and covered with small mounds, and form crossed in every direction by great cracks. In some of the darkest of the caves and crevces of their rocky environment could be een little streams of liquid sulphur trickling down the stones, and in other places pools of the same coated with an efflorescence of sublimated sulphur. As the vapor and blue flames darted up from these fiery ittle lakes and floated skyward, they appear d to Grasty and Stevens like demon spirits rom hell, winging their midnight way to spread contagion to the slumbering world without. Impressed with the horrors of this unearthly region, they returned to the hut, nd once more buried themselves in the cheerless mats, and there shivered and groaned until 9 o'clock the next morning. Corchado then prepared breakfast, and sum moned them to partake of it. Aside from drinking a cup of coffee, they could eat nothing. Their inner men were not used to the treatment they had been receiving the past 36 hours, and so refused to be comfort-Their lungs, too, were also in rebellion and were disgusted with the vapidity of the air and the gaseous exhalations of the "BREATHING HOLES." These they now visited in company with their kind and generous host. They are the mighty fissures that appear in every direc-tion in the bottom of this vast cavity. They are not very broad, but "oh jimminy masses of vapor and smoke, which is heavily laden with sublimated sulphur. This co denses as soon as the steam strikes the the surrounding rocks. This process bas been going on for ages, until the sulphur. This is in quantities that are inexhaustible, and some day will produce a collossal fortune for its owner, Gen. Ochoa. Forty miners are now engaged in excavating and hoisting it to the top of the crater.

To return to the chasm, however. The They could see no bottom, for it ended in Stygian darkness. They rolled a huge stone into its rugged throat. A series of reports, caused by the missil bounding from side to side of the pit, came back, loud at first but gradually diminishing until they died away in the awful depths below. Who knows where that rock went to. The other holes, like

were vomiting steam and making a great noise, which at times seemed like the slow and laborious throb of Cyclopean enginery. At others it sounded like the hisses of anted iluvian serpents; again, like the bellowing and shrieking of devils. Having everything that could be seen they bid their new-made but long to-be-remembered friend, Corchado, farewell, and set out to return, accompanied by four Indians

> Stunning Vapor Bath [Alexandria (Va) Gasette.]

An elderly lady residing in the upper part of the city, having been advised by a friend of the beneficial effects of vapor baths, ex-temporized one last night, but says she will never take another. She filled a saucer with whisky, in which she put boneset and sassafras, and placing it upon the floor put a cane-bottom chair over it, and taking her seat, had herself and the whole apparatus com-pletely enveloped in a large blanket. An attendant then lifted a corner of the blanket and applied a match to the whisky, when, instead of the gentle soothing vapor that was PASTY SWOONS WHILE DANGLING IN THE HOR-RIBLE ABYSS.

Funny Condition of Mrs. Fitch's Egyptain Diamouds. |Correspondence New York Graphic. 1

One of the most curious pieces of legisla-tion in Congress during the last session was a resolution intended to be doubly favorable in its effect regarding the wedding present of a diamond necklace and earrings from the Khedive of Egypt to Gen. Sherman's daughter. The resolution as it became a law s as follows.

"PRIVATE RESOLUTION No. 1.—Joint resolution authorizing Thomas W, Fitch, Engineer of the United States Navy, to accept of a wedding present sen to his wife, Mrs. Minnie Sherman Fitch. Resolved, etc., Thomas W. Fitch, Engineer of the United States Navy, be, and is hereby authorized to accept of a wedding present of jewelry sent to his wife, Mrs. Minnie Sherman Fitch, by the Khedive of Egypt as a token of his respect.

"Approved February 18, 1875." The above resolution does not exempt the present from duty, but merely authorizes her susband, who is an officer in the United States army, to accept it. After this became law, it was found that the Government was still entitled to the duty, and that was exactly what the resolution was intended to avoid, but the terms were insufficient. The words "free of duty" were suggested after the word "accept," but several Senators said

t was unnecessary.

When the defect was known, another reso ution was offered, and it would have pass but General Sherman went to the capitol and protested against it as a rigmarole of foolishness. He said he did not want any resolution passed making the diamonds free of duty. Engineer Fitch has not the money spare to pay such an enormous amount of duty as is required, and his wife would be apt to wear the necklace under any circumstances. Gen. Sherman is not a wealthy man, and can not support such extravagance. The present is now in custody of the ector of the Port of where it will no doubt remain until next winter, when something will be done about it. These diamonds have been subject to so much and inspection that almost their exact value is ascertained. Their value is not $400,000, as has been asserted, or anything like it. They are worth $65,000 to gold, and the duty on them is about $17,500.

[New York Sun.] It is four weeks since the rested in the scandal case, and Mr. Beecher's defense began.

During this long period many witness have been examined, and what is most remarkable about them is that their testim has seemed to be addressed not to the defense of Mr. Beecher against the charges brought by Mr. Tilton, but solely to the over-throw of Tilton.

If Mr. Beecher is innocent, this sort of evidence is altogether unnecessary. Theodore Tilton's character was badly damaged be-Tilton's character was badly fore, and it is not worth while for Mr. Beech. er to employ the court, and jury, and lawvers for a month in destroying it over again.

If Mr. Beecher is guilty, his crimes will not be palliated by blackening Tilton—at least not in the opinion of intelligent men.

This evidence, however, though entirely needless and useless on the hypothesis of needless and useless on the hypothesis of Mr. Beecher's innocence, may yet be very proper as tending to mitigate the damages to be awarded by the jury on the hypothesis of his guilt; and it is indeed a very striking circumstance that so great a period of time should be occupied by the defense in bringing out such a mass of testimony.

This course of the defense produces a very painful impression upon the public mind.

painful impression upon the public mind. If Mr. Beecher is innocent, one witness was necessary above all to prove it, and that is Mr. Beecher himself. He should have been the first if not the only person sworn for the defence, and when he had done they might have gone to the jury. This long delay in producing him, and the manner in which the time is occupied, strengthens the suspicion that he is not willing to appear on the stand. We even hear it said that he will not come forward to testify to his own innocence, and challenge the unsparing cross-examination which awaits him. And when the question is asked, Why not? the answer is, He does

The boy Diggs, who escaped from the House of Refuge, is now in jail awaiting transfer.

Thirty-six tramps were accommodated with loding at the Sixth street Station-house last night.

The revival at Zion colored church on South East street, is still in progress with unabated interest.

Ed. Owens got his hand severely mashed while coupling cars at the outer Bee Line yards, last night.

A number of billiard experts have gone to Toledo to attend the match between Carter and Gallagher, for the championship of Ohio.

Hicks and Slaughter, the Vandalia car robbers, have been sentenced to four years' imprisonment on conviction of the crime at Effingham, yesterday. Morris Cavenaugh, a pupil of the Eighth district school frightened the teacher and scholars, yesterday afternoon, by having several severe spasms in succession.

The Postmaster General has decided, in answer to an inquiry from this city, that figures may be written upon the back of photographs to retain their identity without sujecting packages to letter postage rates.

Articles of incorporation of the "Shedman (Clay county) Coal Company," with a capital stock of $50,000, have been filed with the Secretary of State. Messrs. Allen, Root, Green and Pierce, of this city, constitute the directorship.

D. M. Boyd, General Passenger Agent of the Pennsylvania road, passed through the city last evening en route for Chicago, and reports no disposition on the part of his ant State Geologist, a highly educated lady company to make any compromises with th B. & O. road.

The Bee Line Company have filed an injunction to stop further proceedings in the matter of constructing a street railway east on Michigan street. This route is undesirable, as it would necessitate the crossing of some dozen or more railway tracks at the Bee Line stock yards.

Meridian Lodge No. 480, I. O. O. F., was instituted in this city last evening by the election and installation of the following officers: Wm. S. Marsh, Jr., P. G.; Charles Maguire, N. G.; John B. Powell, V. G.; John N. Beers, Secretary; Wm. I. Ripley, Treasurer; S. W. Cochrane, C.; H. W. White, W.

The State Board of Agriculture is suing the Street Railroad Company for the collection of $1,000 alleged to be due them on an agreement made in March 1868, when the company agreed to pay the Board that sum in consideration of the State fairs of '69 and '70 being held on the grounds now occupied by the Board. The Chief of Police, two Captains (one convalescent) four Sergeants and 65 patrolmen (34 Irish), and that full corps of secret detectives, together with the forces heretofore enumerated which might called to their aid, have not yet obliterated that commonest kind of a common dead-fall on South Illinios. Can not the Mayor and City Marshal aided by that able-bodied Bob, devise some strategy to baffle these swin-

Tender Loin and Porter-house.

A scraggy, tough, big-jointed bull, one of the ancient breed, last night hoofed it into Kingan's pens, and to-day was wafted to the realm of steak and bologna by one of the city butchers. This bull was an ugly fellow. uglier than usual, with huge folds of tough hide hanging from the neck, while his quar-ters suggested the apposite of "tender loin" or "porter-house" smothered in onions. His horn was crumpled and broad at the baseover the forehead hung shaggy hair, while the spinal column curved upward and curved downward like the broken ridge of a deserted tenement. The hoofs were cracked and the nose ran distemper, a huge wart adding nothing to its comeliness, and whether viewed by the front or the rear, or the side, he was a wreck of his former self and a model of unsavory beef. Nevertheless his fate lay in the Golgotha across the river, and e'en now the odor from his stripped and frying or broiling flesh may be pungently per-meating the boarding house kitchen or the home of the private dwelling. Oh, butcher, butcher, hast thou no conception of "true inwardness," and dost thou never hang upon the "ragged edge" of perturbed stomachs?

Mr Leake was more at home' in Richelieu last night at the Academy, and his character-ization shows more decidedly its originality of conception; he toning down the rough edges and more closely mellowing the character into a harmonious whole. Judged in the light of last night, Mr. Leake's third appearance in the role, his impersonation is a first class one and it needs but time to command a general acknowledgement of this. The support was good, at times unusually strong. Mr. Norton's De Mauprat was gallantly borne but with an occasional disposition to rant, while Miss Alice Brooks as the fair Julia acted superbly and looked the character right handsomely. To-night Othello will be played, with Mr. Leake as Iago, a character in which he has won considerable distinction. For the matinee tomorrow Lady of Lyons is promised, and at

Next week Charlotte Thompson in Jane Dan Macacly, who takes charge May 1, is already looking out for academy business, and has fixed his headquarters at BradExamination for Teachers' Certificates. The regular Teachers' Examination for March will be held at the High School building, to-morrow at 9 o'clock, A. M., the standard of qualifications being as follows: 1. No license is given when the candidate is known to possess a bad moral character, or when unfair communications of any kind are detected during the examination.

2. If in orthography, reading or writing, the applicant falls below 70 per cent., or if in geography or English grammar, below 50 per cent., or United States History or physiology, below 40 per cent., no license will be granted.

icense will be granted.
3. If in each branch the applicant shall at ain the minimum above named, and the general average shall fall below 70 per cent., no license will be issued.

4. But in case no branch fall below its minimum, the length of term for which the icense will be issued is determined from the general average as follows: From 70 to 75 per cent., fourth class, six months: from 75 to 85, third class, twelve months; from 85 to 95, second class, eighteen months; from 95 to 100, first-class, twenty-four months.

All licenses are subject to revocation by the County Superintendent or his successor in office, upon proof of certain charges as enumerated in the school law.

He tells a terrible story of hist sufferings, but declares, nevertheless, that he will return to the Indians if he fails to find his relatives.

The Montgomery County Commissioners have authorized the Auditor to offer a reward of $1,000 for the arrest and conviction of the murderer of Mrs. David Brown. Mr. Brown proposes to turn over notes and claims to the amount of 6,000 (about all the property he possesses) to some responsible party, to be given as an additional reward for the arrest of the murderer.

Such a confessing as there is at Hopewell church, Jennings county! Wives and husbands are accusing each other of infidelity, neighbors charge neighbors with thefts, ly ing, and all the minor crimes, and under stress of conviction the accused are owning up to even worse than is charged, so that in a small way the little village rivals Brookly in nastiness, and exceeds it in honesty.

William and Henry Hunt, of Covington, went out hunting in a boat on the river, and unfortunately got upset. They succeeded in getting into the boat again, which however was filled with water, and drifted about at the mercy of the waves until they were utterly exhausted, speechless and frothing at the mouth, when they were rescued by their father.

On Friday evening last Christain Herr, an aged citizen of Dudley township, Henry county, went to visit his son-in-law residing in the edge of Wayne county. Some of his daughter's family noticing a horse and buggy hitched at their gate for some time, and seeing no person with it, finally went out to see what it meant, when they discovered Mr. Herr lying near by quite dead. The supposition is that he died of heart disease immediately after hitching his horse.

An Unpleasant Incident. [Canton (Miss.) Mail.]

John Parrott, who resides a short distance from this place, had reason to suspect for some time past that his corn was not going to mill, or to feed his own stock. Last Friday night about bed time he approached the criband hearing a hoise on the inside he called out to know who was there. He received no answer, and called again, when out jumped a fifteenth amendment. Mr. Parrott had his shot gun in his hand, and as the thief moved off and mounted a ten rail fence he concluded to give him a sprinkling as a parting gift. Just as the fellow got on the top of the fence the gun was discharged, and that too, with mortal effect, for when Mr. Parrott approached the fence, their sat the darky—dead. Next morning Mr. Parthe darky—dead. Next morning Mr. Par-rott surrendered himself to Justice Pitchford, and underwent examination. He plead gullty, to the shooting, stated the circum-stances, and there being no witness to contradict him, he was discharged.

THE WOMEN ON LOCAL OPTION,

All our NEW GOODS now They Approve Gov. Ames's Action in Mississippi and Thank Him by Resolution.

At the meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union yesterday one of the la-dies read the following message of the Gov-ernor of Mississippi, vetoing the bill to repeal the local option law of that State. As a result the vote on the bill was reconsidered, of 57 to 38

To the House of Representatives: GENTLEMEN-I return, without my approval, House Bill No. 622, an act to repeal an act entitled an act to amend section 2,495 of the revised Code, an act to amend section 2,495 of the revised Code, 1871, etc.

The law this intended to repeal was passed by the Legis'ature less than a year ago. It was passed to meet a gigantic evil which overshadowed the land and incited violence and crime; filled our jails and penitentary with its defined victims: entailed upon the State burdens and taxation to an incredible amount to meet the expenses of courts and prisons, and carried desolation and grief, sorrow and want to thousands of households.

It is true, unfortunately, that the law has failed to meet the expectations of its friends. While in some localities it has been successful, in others it has been evaded, disregarded or trampled under

No great reformatory measure has ever been ear-fied to such a successful issue in a single year. It is by no means extraordinary that this trial, dur-ing a less period, should not have proven altogeth-is by no means extraordinary that this trial, during a less period, should not have proven altogether satisfactory.

Legislation to prevent the sale and consequently the use of intoxicating liquors, has been advised by all philanthropists—men who are prominent as lovers of their fellow men—and who, recognizing the foibles of human nature, have sought by legislation to protect it against it elf. We can do no better that to follow the examples of such men and such legislation. The law has proved to be imperfect. It should be perfected: not repealed. Public opinion may be against its enforcement; but no progress, no improvement is rossible if public opinion is to dictate. Even educat on and culfy thenment would have been impossible if the ty-ant public opinion had been suplied obeyed.

One of the most admirable features of the law is that which gives the women of the State a voice in so important a question. It is to them that we must look for teachings in morality and virtue; and it is they, too, who feel most poign-ntly the gent evils of intemperance. Their intellicence, their education, their deep interest in their fathers, husbands, brothers and cons, pre-eminently qualify them to judge in an issue of this character. No possible harm can result from an expression of their views on any subject, much less on one like this.

My sense of duty compels me to withhold my approval to this bill, and to earnestly, recommend the amendment and perfection of the law it proposes to repeal.

Abelbert Ames, Governor.

The measure was most highly approved and the opinion very freely expressed as to the bold contrast it presented to the conduct of the Governor of Indiana, whom the ladies of the Union feel is personally an i chiefly of the Governor of Indiana, whom the ladies of the Union feel is personally and chiefly esponsible for the repeal of Indiana's local option law. One of the ladies offered the following, which was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That in the interests of humanity we tender our gratitude and appreciation to Governor Ames, of Mississippi, for his rare example of an executive who had the moral principle and courage to stand alone between the people and the liquor power; and, as women, we thank him for his high tribute to womanhood.

The Secretary was instructed to send a copy of the resolution to Gov. Ames

Court Matters.

The argument has commenced in the obnson-Everts damage suit, Gordon leading off for the plaintiff, followed by Harris and Dye for the defence. Fishback will close to the jury. The Campbell-Faulkner trouble is still on before Newcomb, and the I. & St. L. vs. Watson before Howland. In the Criminal Court George Lowery, alias Haines, was established by the prosecution. er confidently expected accuittal, and the return of the jury was to him a terrible dis-appointment. Judge Buskirk fined Jake chaurer, of the House of Lords for violation of the Baxter law. Mayor Mitchell adjudgen John McFarland a vagrant, and fined Samuel Cotton, James Robinson and John McNamara for drunkenness. Charles McGinnis and George Abbott disturbed the peace. The cruelty to animals complaint against Albert Frowers was dismissed. dore Dixon hit David Martin, and Martin rovoked Dixon.

A New Idea.

The argument is now made for the Council to convert the City Hospital into a work-house, adapting the buildings, so far as pracicable, for that purpose, and removing the ospital to a more central location. The ect has gained ground rapidly within the past few months that this institution is too far removed from the city proper, and it is asserted that the close proximity to the waters of Fall Creek makes it disadvantageous for invalids, rendering them much more sub-ject to malarious diseases. It is still further argued that the South Park, having been purchased for park purposes, can not be subverted to other uses, and therefore the establishment of a work-house thereon as practi-cally impossible. The idea is new, and per-haps not so bad, but it requires considera-tion before a conclusion is reached. One thing is acknowledged-two things in factthat the city imperatively needs a work-house, and it also needs more hospital acommodation, and what will aid in these two things demands immediate attention.

Withdrawn.

The suit of Russell & Bugbee against John A. Childs, of which mention was made yesterday, was dismissed this morning at the cost of the plaintiffs. The facts of the case were this: Mr. Childs sold the plaintiffs the property on which the Boston Block is built and there was a flaw in the title which it was necessary to have quieted by the court. The purchasers demanded that Childs should pay the costs of this, $138 60, and he agreed to do so, but wished time to obtain part from the former owner from whom he had pur chased, but before action could be taken suit was brought nominally to recover $6,000, the value of the land affected. This was terminated this morning by the payment of the costs for quieting the title, as agreed upon.

Show Your Hand, City Marshals.

At last accounts that unli erised South Illinois street dead-fall was in full blast, with no interruption from the police authorities. The respectable residents in that vicinity are so heartily disgusted with the boldness with which the proprietor carries on his nefarious business, that it is proposed to have all the candidates for the City Marshalship commit themselves as to whether or not they will rid the city of this nuisance before pledging them any support at the bailot box. It is indeed humiliating to acknowledge that of all the officials in the employ of the city not one has exhibited the requisite backbone to clean out this lottery establishment.

The Department had a useless run to A. Warner's residence, on Columbia street, near New York, this forenoon, caused by the burning of some clothing laid out for the wash, which had ignited from the stove. The alarm was useless, for Charley Rhoads had stamped out the trouble before the box was pulled. Loss light.

A Singular Pesertion.

Yesterday a covered wagon was driven through Indianola, and when near the ound-house a little girl was noticed to be orcibly expelled therefrom-after which the vagon proceeded rapidly westward. Who the inmates were could not be seen. The girl, probably ten years of age, afterwards found a temporary refuge with David Smith. living close at hand, and to his interrogotaries she gave ready answers except when the subject touched upon her father's name, his residence, and why she was so heartlessly deserted in the roadway. Her physical conlition was simply horrible, herself dirty and forlorn, her hair long and matted, and ap-parently uncombed for months, and her eyes sore and swollen until almost blinded. She states that her ride in the wagon lasted two days, but the "why" is a thing which she either will not or can not tell. is considerable speculation in Stringtown over her situation, and the latest theory will have it that she is an "heiress" whom her relations are trying to put out of the way.

A substantial iron vault has been placed in the office of the U. U. Clerk in the Postoffice building, for the safe keeping of valuable court dockets. It is unfortunate howeve, that wooden instead of iron shelves are being placed in the interior of the vault, which, in case of a fire would readily ignite and do serious damage. It is not too late vet to make the change.

Refustated.

Ex-Capt. Horrell, G. N. A. D., projector of that Mozart Hall Police ball and at present connected with globular Bigham's publication, has been reinstated in the service of the city, in the capacity of detective. At least he is giving circulation to this effect and in all probability there is some truth in the report. As the other detectives have signally failed in ridding the town of that unlicensed dead fall on South Illinois street, t is suggested that Horrell turn his attention to accomplishing this much desired object.
